Prototyping

Prototyping is the tangible creation of artifacts, for development and testing of ideas within design teams and with client and users. This stage yields the refinement of the parallel prototyping reflection from the previous state.